Short Term Programme

(3 weeks study of 25 hours per week)

What is TOEIC?

TOEIC is a globally recognized test that measures English language ability for professional purposes in reading, writing, listening and speaking. This test is for intermediate and advanced level learners of English who wish to be proficient in business English before they enter the professional arena. Employers worldwide, particularly in Asia and increasingly in Europe, use this test to assess English language for the workplace.

TOEIC is divided into two parts, Listening and Reading, and Writing and Speaking. The Reading and Listening portion is given a score between 10 and 990 and the speaking and writing portions are given a score out of 200. Both of these scores reflect the level of English of the test taker, however, the Listening and Reading score is the most commonly used score.
